Miss Dow Husbands beat a mere man for school trustee in Paducah by 151 votes.

Statisticians say that out of every million of the world's population about 64 are blind.

Stanley is elected without the vote of Louisville, but that 4,000 majority in the good old metropolis is appreciated all the same.

Woman suffrage failed to black the board in either New York, Pennsylvania or Massachusetts. The aggregate majorities were 600,000.

Stanley Reed, of Mason, and Elmer Brown, of Owensboro, two prominent Democrats in the last Legislature, were defeated by Republicans.

The possum hunters went after Ben Birkhead and Ben Ringo and with Republican help and the aid of Democratic scratchers got their scalps at Hartford.

Many Democrats who went into the primary in August failed to abide by the result and support the nominee for Governor. Some were Christians who ought not to have broken a moral obligation.

McCall, Rep., defeated Gov. Walsh, Dem., for re-election in Massachusetts by about 6,000 votes in a total of 460,000. Republicans claimed 40,000. Democrats gained heavily from the disintegrating Bull Moose party and Walsh made a wonderful race, receiving 56,000 more votes than President Wilson got in 1912.

The Hazelp ticket won in Paducah, Hazelp retiring as Mayor to be succeeded by Ernest Lackey, he becoming a commissioner. Don P. Marton, commissioner of finance, defeated by Chas. Van Meter was the only one to fail of re-election. George C. Wallace and L. A. Washington were re-elected commissioners.

In Ohio County in the race for circuit court clerk A. C. Porter, Democrat, won over Wallace Rilev, Republican, by a majority of 27 votes. This was a most remarkable race, as Porter was the only Democrat who was successful in this county. All of the other Republican nominees won by majorities ranging from 600 to 700.

The R. H. Macy Co., department store, New York, have printed on the bottom of their letterheads: "We have never heard a good reason for the use of 'Dear Madame,' 'Dear Sir,' 'Yours Truly,' and other similar phrases in business correspondence. For the sake of accuracy, brevity and economy, we have discontinued their use." There are also people in New York who are amused when they see a gentleman get up and give his seat to a lady.

The bottom dropped out of the Democratic party in Daviess county, which gave only 174 majority for Stanley, and the local judicial district ticket was beaten. Judge Ben F. Birkhead and Commonwealth's Attorney Ben D. Ringo, the fearless officers who broke up night riding in Ohio county, were both made "Has Bens" by 700 to 800 majority. Birkhead was beaten by Robt. W. Slack, a prominent Republican of Owensboro, and Ringo by C. E. Smith, Republican, of Hartford, an unknown man. They lost three out of the four counties. Louis Yewell, Dem., and Jas. S. Cross, Rep., are elected representatives from the county and city. Republicans also control the Owensboro council.

LIVE STOCK

REQUISITES OF GOOD HORSE

Well-Bred Mare is Splendid Investment for Any Farmer—Get Colts Only From Best Stock.

(By W. R. GILBERT.)

Nowadays farmers are beginning to awaken to the fact that it takes strong horses to do good work on the farm.

The fact that almost any horse can be made to do something at farm work is no valid excuse for men who profess to have their own interests at heart to persist in breeding horses that nobody wants, not even themselves.

In the fields a big team makes haste by the width of the furrow or swath they cut.

There is pleasure and inspiration in the business of breeding and handling high-class horses.

Bear in mind in breeding horses that it is just as essential to breed good feet on to them as to get weight and blood in them.

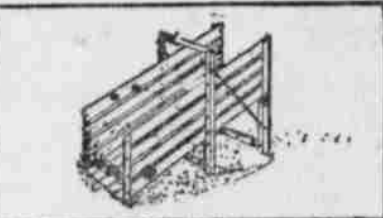

The purebred mare is a good investment to the small farmer, and if he will allow her to share the work of the place she will do nearly as much work as a gelding, and raise a good colt besides.

A well-bred mare bred to a stallion of best type will bring a colt worth as much at weaning time as a grade colt would bring at maturity, sometimes a lot more.

UNLOADING CHUTE FOR STOCK

Device Patented by Illinois Man Is Especially Good for Hogs—May Be Moved Easily.

Handling of live stock, especially hogs that are ready for market, is oftentimes cruel and a cause of real financial loss to the shipper because of lack of unloading facilities at the local stock yards. An Illinois farmer has patented the unloading chute shown here. It is strong and yet light enough to be moved freely about so that hogs may be unloaded from the wagon on to the level ground. Cleats prevent slipping of an animal that is coming down the chute, thus reducing the possibilities of broken legs and bruises. The chute may be folded up and carried on the load of stock, or put back out of the way when not in use. Its use on large farms or at small stock yards is certain to be found practical by business farmers everywhere.—Farming Business.

DRENCHING DROVE OF HOGS

Best Way Is to Drive Animals Into Pen Where They Will Have But Little Room to Move In.

The quickest and easiest way to drench a drove of hogs is to drive them into a small pen where they will have but little room to move about. To hold the animal while drenching it a noose of sash cord or quarter-inch rope can be placed around the upper jaw, well back toward the angles of the lips, and the medicine thrown into the back part of the mouth with a dose syringe. As there is danger of a hog breaking a syringe it is best to use a metal one. Sometimes when the drench is bulky and the hog hard to hold, it is necessary to elevate the head and raise the forefeet off the ground. For this purpose a pulley and rope wire stretcher is recommended. It should be hung in the most convenient part of the pen and the animal secured in the usual way by placing a noose around the jaw. The end of the rope is thrown over the hook in the lower pulley and the hog drawn up until it is almost off the floor. It is best to wait till the hog has become quiet, well under control, before giving it the drench, as there is some danger of the medicine getting into the air passages and doing harm.

For Fattening Sheep.

Peas are strongly recommended for fattening sheep. When fed in combination with either corn, barley or oats, equal parts, better gains are made than when either of the above cereals is fed alone. This is especially true where timothy hay or corn stover is fed as a roughage.

Don't Worry—Eat.

Memphis, Tenn.—Mrs. Emma D. Looney, of this place, says: "I suffered misery for nearly eight years, but since taking Cardui, I am much stronger, and I haven't missed a single meal. I hardly know how to express my gratitude." Don't worry about your symptoms—Cardui doesn't treat them. What you need is strength. Cardui helps you to get it. Take Cardui, because other tonics and medicines do not contain its peculiar and successful ingredients, imported especially for its manufacture. Half a century of success, has stamped Cardui with the seal of public approval. During this time, Cardui has benefited a million women. Why not you? Try it today.—Advertisement.

CROSSING COP IS MOTOR CAR CRITIC

Knows All the Strong and Weak Points of Different Makes.

STARTS MANY A RACE

In Leisure Hours Sometimes Drives His Own Car in Competition.

In the present era of long-distance automobile racing, Official Starter Fred J. Wagner is a busy man if he sends away three fields in a month.

To the average crossing policeman in any big American city, a job like this would seem like nothing to do. For there isn't a day goes by during which, acting in his official capacity, the cop doesn't start at least a hundred dashes, with fields ranging from four to twenty or more cars competing.

Just as the star professionals in Wagner's fields jockey for position and employ all their skill to get the best of the getaway, so maneuver the pilots of the roadsters and touring cars that line up for the blue-coated officer of the law. Most of them are as anxious to get the jump on the other fellow as if there was $20,000 waiting for them at the next crossing.

With such opportunities, it is no wonder that the crossing policeman becomes a good judge of automobiles and on intimate terms with their characteristics. His ideal is the car that, day in and day out, shows ahead of the rest in the dash that starts with the toot of his whistle. Now and then he becomes himself a motorist as did Traffic Officer Guy McAfee of the Los Angeles squad, who appeared one day at Maxwell agency and demanded to know what sort of gasoline they were using to make the new 1916 models so brisk in the crossing dashes.

An obliging salesman showed the officer that the car could do it all on the staple product.

"I've been watching 'em for some time," commented McAfee. "Now I'm going to own one. If anybody beats me past my mate when I'm off duty it'll be my fault and not the car's, for there's something about these babies that acts like pep."

Up to date McAfee hasn't lost a heat. It is his chief delight to show his fellow Los Angeles motorists how a good driver and a good car work together in the traffic.

FEEDING WHEAT TO CHICKENS

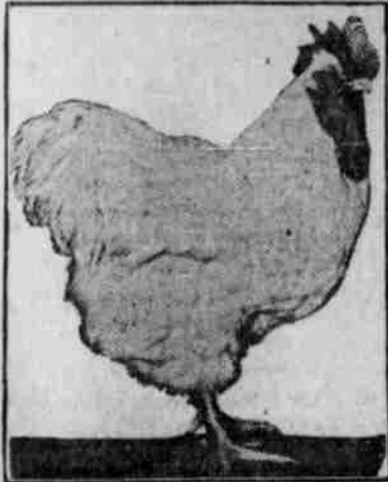

Exercise Given Hens in Scratching Out Grain Is Conducive to Egg Laying at All Times.

(By H. H. SHEPARD.)

Last year, being short of hay and having only a small wheat crop, we cut all our wheat with the mower and put it up for hay, harvesting it a few days before the regular wheat harvesting time.

Our wheat-hay stored in the barn was fed to the horses from the time it was harvested till late in the winter when it was all used up. Incidentally, it proved to be one of the best horse feeds we ever used. But the chickens had the run of the barn and lots, picking up and scratching out all scattered wheat.

As soon as our wheat was in the barn and its feeding began, the hens began immediately to lay more eggs than usual. They continued to lay unusually well all summer, fall and through the winter till the wheat-hay was all fed out and gone. Within less than a week after this wheat-hay was gone our hens dropped in their egg yield noticeably and they did not come back to a heavy yield in spring till we reluctantly purchased wheat at $1.60 a bushel and began to feed this grain.

Pure-Bred Orpington.

Then they did come back to their former high yield.

The hens lay enough more eggs when fed on wheat to make the wheat bring even better than war prices for grain. They seem to do much better, too, when they are given wheat in the straw, or bundle, than when given the pure thrashed grain. It seems that the exercise they get in scratching it out is conducive to egg laying.

SOME TROUBLES OF TURKEYS

Common Cause of Disease Termed Chicken Pox Is Overfeeding With Corn—It Congests Liver.

Turkeys are sometimes infected with a disease which might be termed chicken pox—a condition in which the heads become covered with large yellow sores, which discharge a little and form scabs, giving the birds a most unwholesome appearance, writes I. B. Henderson in Farm, Stock and Home. This is a form of scrofula, and it seems to spread from one bird to another, so that it needs to be dealt with on definite lines.

We believe a common cause of this to be overfeeding with corn, which, in spite of advice to the contrary, still remains a favorite food for turkeys with many farmers; but it overheats the system, and, being of a starchy nature, tends to congest the liver even of young stock. The blood in this way becomes filled with impurities, for the simple reason that the digestive processes cannot be properly carried out, and these eruptions, especially if the birds get inoculated with the complaint from some other source, will appear and will work untold mischief.

The only way to deal with this is to separate the birds, bathe the sores as they appear with a fairly strong solution of permanganate of potash, paint with disinfectant, dose the bird with epsom salts, and keep on a fairly low diet. Such a treatment will give the bird a set-back so far as fleshing is concerned, but it is absolutely necessary to follow out such a treatment if the trouble is to be checked.

Wheat for Laying Hens.

Wheat in the sheaf is not only one of the very best feeds for laying hens, but it is very good for little chickens and young growing stock. We cut wheat for all our poultry as soon as grain is formed, and continue the feeding for all the year. There is nothing better for the birds. Wheat in the straw in the hen house in winter furnishes both grain and scratching litter of the best kinds. It pays to feed wheat if you want lots of eggs for all seasons.

Money Well Spent.

Each year, as trap nesting is practiced, better returns will be obtained from fewer hens. It is important. The time spent in looking after these nests is the best expenditure on the poultry farm. It is money well spent. But, as already mentioned, it is equally important to use males, in mating, that came from hens that did good work.
